Would Suppress Boycotts.

It is said that the President would not agree to this, and, in fact, he was disposed to urge that boycotts should be suppressed by legislation which otherwise was fair to the labor unions. It was Mr. Low's mission in calling on Mr. Gompers yesterday to show him that the President's message, if it was to have force, must be couched in language in juxtaposition to the decisions of the Supreme Court on this question. No agreement was reached and, in fact, Mr. Gompers indicated that he would prefer that the Sherman anti-trust law should continue to apply to labor unions rather than consent to a programme which night effectually stiffs for all time the use of the boycott as a weapon.
